A Series of Articles on Trade in China Based on Twenty-seven years' Experience.

AMERICAN FIRMS AND CHINA TRADE

AN analysis of the China Trade with America, based on Customs Statistics shows that in 1913 Imports were valued at 35 million Haikwan Taels, which increased to 143 millions in 1920, and advanced to 175 million in 1921. In Exports the volume of the trade was 37 million in 1913, 67 million in 1920 and 89 million in 1921.

With the marked advance in the volume of trade between China and the U.S.A., during the period 1913-1921, both in Imports and Exports, a closer analysis reveals the fact that but a small share of this volume of business passed through the hands of American firms in China. The trade has been here, is here now though to a modified extent due to political chaos, and will be here when normalcy again prevails, but the fact will remain unaltered that it is not the American firms in China that will reap the benefit of the restoration of Trade. Both the Import and Export Trade between China and America is in the hands of non-American firms and this brings up the question as to why such a state of affairs exists and the further question what can be done by American interests to regain and control the volume of business between China and the U.S.A.

Effects are always brought about by causes and there are many causes that have brought about the present state of affairs. First and foremost is the important point that American Import and Export houses operating in China are ordinarily financed and controlled from Headquarters at Home, usually such control being in the hands of highly paid Executives whose knowledge of China, her Trade and requirements are elementary if not nil. Headquarters declare a Trading Policy which the local manager has to attempt to carry out, often enough against his local knowledge and best judgment. The judgment of the man who knows is subject to the veto of the man who doesn't and who is 10,000 miles away from the situation.

Inasmuch as the Home office holds the financial bag and is arbiter of whether business is accepted or rejected, the position of the man in China is unenviable. Competitors of other nationalities, whose organisations are capitalised in China, and are run and controlled from this end by trained men who have grown up with their organisations out here, cannot but help have the bulge on American managers, who are operating with one hand tied.

The successful House in this Country is the one who can combine Imports and Exports whereby one more or less offsets the other. In this respect the British, Japanese, German and French Commercial Houses have an immense advantage over American firms, for the latter, with very few exceptions, are not equipped to handle and buy China products. In spite of the fact that American Firms have been engaged in the China trade for years and years, there are not three firms in China who have a vested interest in the country in the shape of having their own land and building and Export installations, as do the firms of other nationalities. It must be borne in mind that the foregoing remarks apply to commercial concerns who handle general import and export business—and of course this would not refer to American concerns who handle a staple single product.

In extenuation it may be claimed by American firms that they are in the first place severely handicapped by the laws of their country—for the belated China Trade act in its present form does not give the American firm the same privileges, facilities and advantages that firms of other nationalities enjoy under their own respective Trade Acts. The American is further penalised by having to pay income tax on his nett profits, which in course of time restricts his working capital and curbs his expansion. One of the solutions lies in the re-drafting of the present act and to attempt to get the necessary legislation to change it to the basis

Move To Be Launched Here Tomorrow By Chambers Of Commerce To Avert War

Leading Businessmen Of Chekiang And Kiangsu Will Meet To Present Peace Plan To Generals Lu Yung-Hsiang And Chi Shih-Yuan

To avert possible warfare in this part of the country as a result of the wily ambition of the Chihli-ites, business men of Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces will meet at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce tomorrow at noon to formulate peace plans which the military authorities of the two provinces will be urged to accept.

The movement is an outgrowth of much maneuvering on the part of a number of Shanghai Chinese merchants, including Mr. Shen Tso-shu, president of the Chinese Bankers' Association; Mr. Yih Yuan-fu, manager of the Salt Bank; Mr. Wang Yi-ting, the noted Buddhist adherent; Koo Tse-pang, the cotton magnate and Chwang Teh-tse, director of the Shanghai Commercial and Savings Bank.

Following rumors of the warlike preparations made by the Chihli party to snatch Shanghai away from the Chekiang hold and the declaration of martial law in Nantao and Chapei by the local Defence Commissioner, a party of prominent business men called on Tuchun Chi Shih-yuan of Nanking who re-iterated his policy of protecting the lives and property under his jurisdiction and shifted the burden of creating the tension on to other Chihlites.

The same party waited on General Lu Yung-hsiang of Hangchow later. General Lu, while expressing his earnest desire to maintain local peace and tranquility in this region, pointed to the actual military movements being made by the Chihli party, of which Chi is a prominent member. These include the despatch of gunboats to Fukien waters to in an attempt to seize the province and the march of several brigades of the troops of General Wang Cheng-ping, Chihli potentate, to Hsuchowfu so that the garrison there might be relieved to conduct military operations in Chekiang province.

The Shanghai merchants then held consultations with representatives of the Chambers of Commerce at Hangchow and Nanking, who all realised that the atmosphere here is too thick with cloud and that the splightest spark would precipitate a storm and agreed that a conference of all leading business men in the two provinces would be the best medium to bring pressure to bear upon the military authorities of the provinces and avoid a sanguinary clash.

A formal proposal was made by these representatives to the local Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, which yesterday issued invitations to all chambers in the provinces to attend a conference here tomorrow at noon.

MEXICO SOON TO BE RECOGNISED BY U. S., BELIEF

Conferees Have Almost Completed Long Labors At Mexico City

(BY UNITED PRESS)
(Special To The China Press)

Obregon

Washington, Aug. 2.—The United States Department of State is in receipt of information that the Mexican Recognition Conference is expected to complete its work on Saturday.

The conference which is being held at the present time in Mexico City had its genesis in an exchange of notes between President Harding and President Obregon of Mexico leading toward recognition by the United States of the Obregon Government. General Alvaro Obregon was inaugurated president on December 1, 1920, following his defeat of the famous bandit-general, Pancho Villa, who was assassinated a few days ago.

General Obregon, however, has never been recognised by the United States and at the present time communication between the two governments is carried on by Charges d'Affaires.

In June President Harding appointed John Bayton Payne, formerly head of the U. S. Shipping Board, and Charles Beecher Warren, former Ambassador to Japan, as the American representatives at the recognition congress.

DISPUTED POINTS

The two chief points in dispute have been the agrarian and petroleum questions. Under the Mexican constitution of 1917 foreign owners of agricultural property had their lands confiscated as all large estates were ordered broken up into small farms. Provisions for payment for the property made it necessary for the foreign owners to accept state bonds, which under present conditions, are almost worthless. Such laws forced all foreign capital out of Mexico as they had no financial protection from confiscation of their property. It is though that agreement has been reached on the question and that following recognition by the United States a Mexican loan to pay for the confiscated lands will be raised in America.

On the petroleum question the United States is expected to make concessions. In 1917 Mexico also declared that all oil underground to be the property of the state, disregarding entirely foreign ownership of oil lands. It is expected that Mexico will be given the right to claim that all undiscovered oil up to May 1, 1917, be declared the property of the state, but that all properties containing oil which had been discovered before that date will remain in the possession of the original owners.

The United States, following out the Monroe Doctrine, assumed responsibility for the settlement of the questions on behalf of other nationals as well as Americans.

Peking Day By Day

BY "QUI VIVE"

Peking, July 31.—It is a common practise, so I am told, for accountants, auditors, and cashiers to cast up accounts at the end of each and every month and discover—if possible—whether or not a profit or loss has been entailed as a result of the month's transactions.

I am neither any one of the above mentioned gentlemen, but if the casting of accounts is necessary in commercial life, how much more necessary is it in the life of a nation. It has been stated that China is at the crossroads, the "apex of the crisis" to quote a Chinese news agency, or carrying "The peak of her load" according to the more euphemistic American press.

The month of July was in more senses than one a period of stock-taking. I am forcibly reminded of the old proverb "The troubles, that yesterday we feared would eventuate on the morrow, never happened today." In other words all the countless rumors of an attack on the city, by the "mutinous" troops of General Feng Yu-hsiang, did not take place; Marshal Tsao Kun did not come to Peking as a saviour, and establish himself as temporary dictator. On the other hand, President Li Yuang-hung is still in good health, and if present rumors are not without foundation, he plans once again to enter the political arena after a month's respite from the worries contingent upon an exalted official position.

Parliament has not completed its work on the Chinese Constitution, despite the fact that telegrams have been received from every Super-Tuchun and Tuchun, Tuli and Military Governor of the 18 Provinces urging them to do so. To the disinterested spectator it was an amusing, albeit somewhat pathetic sight, to see with what eagerness these telegrams poured into the capital following the receipt of Marshal Tsao Kun's famous dispatch, urging that the Presidential election be postponed until the Constitution was drafted. "Straws show which way the wind blows," and after the Marshal wisely accepted the views of his counsellors, that it would be impossible for him to assume the duties of President and hope to remain in office more than a fortnight, he took the bull by the horns and urged the immediate drafting of a Constitution, "In order that the people might have rules to govern themselves by." The fact that some 400,000,000 inhabitants, and their ancestors before them, had managed to get along for 4,000 years more or less without written rules to "govern

San Francisco, August 1.—President Harding's secretary has released a speech which the President had intended to deliver on the Administration's accomplishments in the international field in the past two years.

Reference is made to the Washington Conference as the outstanding achievement, and also to the settlement of the British debt, in which connection the President says "Britain has put a fresh stamp of approval on the sacredness of international obligation" and the settlement gives "a new assurance of stability throughout the world."

President Harding reiterates his conviction that America should support the Court of International Justice. With reference to Russia the speech says that international good faith forbids any sort of sanction of the Bolshevik policy.

Railway Guards With Foreign Officers To Be Asked

(Reuter's Service)

[illegible] in the Japanese Diet today, replying to Lieut.-Col. C. K. Howard-Bury, Mr. McNeill, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said that the Governments concerned in China had agreed in principle to the establishment of a railway police force under foreign officers.

The scheme was now being elaborated in Peking in order that its adoption might be pressed on the Chinese Government. The suggestion that the conference on the Customs surtax and the abolition of likin, to be held three months after the ratification of the Washington Treaty by the Powers concerned, should frame general measures for the recovery of China had been rejected after full and careful consideration.

It had similarly been decided not to summon a special conference of the Powers for a like purpose. He agreed that it was vitally important that some decision should be reached by the Powers in order to prevent China from descending further into the slough of despond.

Ruffian Troops Assault Capt. Tornroth Of S.S. Alice Dollar Fire Indiscriminatly And Splinters Injure Mrs. Tornroth, Mrs. Windham And Her Daughter—J. Harold Dollar Lodges Strong Protest With American Minister

Exclusive Dispatch To
THE CHINA PRESS

Ichang, Aug. 2.—One of the foreign women injured in the clash aboard the s.s. Alice Dollar is reported dying.

Exclusive Dispatch To
THE CHINA PRESS

Ichang, Aug. 1.—Bellicose Chinese soldiers, led by a General and a civil official, boarded the s.s. Alice Dollar here last night and after creating a disturbance over cabin accommodations for the 'General' assaulted Captain Tornroth and fired a number of shots, injuring three American women. They attempted to seize the ship and overran all authority.

Capt. Tornroth was assaulted when he interfered in a quarrel between the purser and the General. The General struck him and the soldiers crowded about and suddenly opened fire. Captain Tornroth was wounded in the leg and is under medical attendance.

A number of shots were fired several of them ricocheting, and Mrs. Tornroth, the captain's wife, and Mrs. P. C. Windham, wife of the Dollar line's Ichang agent, and her daughter, were wounded by steel splinters.

The Alice Dollar's siren was sounded and within a few minutes a party of Marines from the U.S.S. Isabel, flagship of the American Yangtsze patrol, which was near, boarded the Dollar vessel and captured the General and thirteen soldiers and placed them under arrest.

The Alice Dollar is waiting at Ichang pending the receipt of information from Admiral W. W. Phelps, commander of the Yangtsze patrol, concerning the disposition of the Chinese belligerents being held on the ship.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, August 1.—Last night a Chinese civil official who desired to proceed to Chungking boarded the steamer, Alice Dollar, escorted by a deputy General and a dozen soldiers. The official objected to the accommodation and raised an altercation with the purser. The captain was called in and was struck by the deputy General. The captain took hold of him, when the soldiers crowded about the captain and severely assaulted him and shots were fired. The bullets ricocheted and splinters wounded the captain's wife and also the wife and daughter of the ship's agent. The siren was sounded, when a boarding party was sent from the U. S. S. Isabel. The deputy General and the soldiers were all detained on board the Alice Dollar.

Mr. J. Harold Dollar of the Robert Dollar Company, interviewed by THE CHINA PRESS last night, said that he had received information similar to that contained in our exclusive dispatch from Ichang, and that he had immediately filed a protest with Dr. J. G. Schurman, the American Minister at Peking, in which he demanded that ships in the upper river trade be allowed to carry a marine guard for the protection of the foreign lives and property involved as they did two years ago.

The news of the Chinese firing on the American vessel has been cabled to the important news agencies and newspapers in the United States, and it is expected that the outrage will also be called to the particular attention of Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, Secretary of State.

(BY UNITED PRESS)
Special to The China Press

Manila, August 1.—Emilio Aguinaldo, "President" of the Philippines, and insurrection leader against the Americans at the time of the occupation of the [illegible] Philippines, is a candidate for senator from the Fourth Senatorial District, comprising Manila, Rizal, Laguna and Bataan, according to an agreement reached by Senate President Quezon and Governor Martinola today.

Aguinaldo has not as yet been consulted and because he has always stayed out of politics in the islands it is thought that he will refuse to accept the nomination.

Judge Juan Sumulong, the proposed Democrata party candidate, who is favorable to Governor-General Wood, and ex-Mayor Ramon Fernandez, Quezon's candidate, are still candidates pending an official agreement among all parties. Fernandez, in the event of a two-sided contest, will have the support of the Collectivista and the Nationalistas. Filipino politics and up to the present has made no statement in the Wood-Quezon controversy. It is known, however, that he has Democrata leanings.

Peking Foreign Office And Japanese Legation In Row Over New Envoy

China Says:

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 2.—Today at 3 p.m. Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, called on Mr. Yoshizawa, the new Japanese Minister to Peking.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 29.—The following statement on the matter of Mr. Yoshizawa's credentials was handed to Reuter's Agency by the Waichiaopu this evening:

1.—On June 20 Mr. Yoshida, the Japanese Charge d'Affaires, called at the Waichiaopu and stated that the Japanese Legation was in receipt of instructions from the Japanese Government, proposing that on reaching Peking, Mr. Yoshizawa, the newly-appointed Japanese Minister, should notify the Waichiaopu of his arrival and assumption of charge of the Japanese Legation, but should defer presenting his credentials until after the election of the President, but if the Waichiaopu should consider this procedure inappropriate the Japanese Foreign Minister could address a formal communication to the Waichiaopu in regard to Mr. Yoshizawa's as-

Japan Says:

JAPANESE VIEW

In the light, however, of precedents as evidenced by the Legation file and more especially in view of Vice-Minister Shen's assurance contained in his note to Mr. Yoshida, then Charge d'Affaires, that the appointment of Mr. Yoshizawa to Peking was particularly acceptable to the Chinese Government, there was no doubt at all to the Japanese Legation that Mr. Yoshizawa had forthwith been recognised by the Chinese Government as Japanese Minister. Surprised, therefore, at the series of extraordinary conducts on the part of the Waichiaopu which were summarised in the Legation statement a few days back, the Japanese Legation sent a secretary to the Waichaopu to ask for an explanation. The answer was that, inasmuch as no letter of credence had been presented, there was no knowing for the Waichaopu the exact capacity, title, etc., of Mr. Yoshizawa and that it could therefore not recognise the latter's official status. The Legation secretary observed sumption of duties as Japanese Minister to China; and inquiring for the views of the Chinese Government on the above proposal. The Vice-Minister, Mr. Shen, seeing that this procedure would be a departure from the usual diplomatic practice, suggested in reply the following.

(a) Mr. Yoshizawa's credentials might be addressed simply to the President of the Republic of China, omitting the name of the President, and on his arrival he should, according to the customary practice, send a copy of his credentials to the Waichiaopu requesting at the same time an audience for the presentation of the original. The actual presentation of the credentials might be postponed until after the election of the President:

(b) The credentials already prepared and addressed to President Li Yuan-hung might be delivered to the Waichiaopu and such delivery might be regarded as completion of the formalities of the presentation of credentials.

CABLED TO TOKIO

It is understood that Mr. Yoshida duly cabled the above suggestion to Tokio.

2. On July 18 the Waichiaopu received a communication from Mr. Yoshizawa, dated July 16, notifying the Ministry of his arrival. In this communication Mr. Yoshizawa made no request for an audience for the presentation of his credentials nor did he send a copy of these credentials to the Ministry. On July 19 Mr. Yoshizawa made his first call on the Vice-Minister, Mr. Shen, at the Waichiaopu. During the interview Mr. Yoshizawa made no mention of the matter of the credentials. The following day Mr. Shen returned Mr. Yoshizawa's call but found him out. Accordingly Mr. Shen, while temporarily deferring an acknowledgment of Mr. Yoshizawa's communication, sent a Secretary of the Ministry to call on Mr. Yoshizawa urging the latter to present his credentials at an early date. In reply Mr. Yoshizawa stated that he had to cable Tokio for instructions.

3. On July 23, Dr. Koo assumed office as Minister for Foreign Affairs. In accordance with the customary practice the Ministry was to notify the Diplomatic Corps of his assumption of office, but, because Mr. Yoshizawa had not yet requested an audience for presenting his credentials nor had he sent a copy of them to the Waichiaopu, thereby leaving the usual formalities connected with the official entry upon the duties of the Japanese Minister to China uncompleted, the Waichiaopu was confronted with difficulties in the matter of addressing Mr. Yoshizawa in the proposed notification. Mr. Wang, Vice-Chief of the Protocol Department, called on the Japanese Legation with a view to a suitable arrangement for the unusual situation. The Legation stated in reply that it was necessary to wait for instructions from Tokio before they could settle the matter. On July 24 the Protocol Department held another conference with the Japanese Legation and proposed a practical solution of the difficulty by suggesting that the notification should take the form of a formal note addressed to the Japanese Legation. This form was finally adopted as the best way of avoiding the point of Mr. Yoshizawa's temporarily delicate position and at the same time emphasising the importance which China has always attached to her relations with Japan by promptly notifying Mr. Yoshizawa of Dr. Koo's assumption of office. The Japanese Legation, to the surprise of the Waichiaopu, returned this note.

KOO TAKES PAINS

4. Upon intimation from Mr. Yoshizawa that he desired to call on him on July 25, Dr. Koo directed the Chief of the Protocol Department to convey to him a message of welcome and fixed the hour at 12:30 p.m. As this was to be Mr. Yoshizawa's first call, Dr. Koo did not wish him to find it necessary to wait, which might be the case if he came in the morning without appointment and found other representatives already present, since it is the practice on the diplomatic day to receive the foreign representatives in the order of their arrival

What Japan Says

that while the matter of the presentation of credentials was at that moment being referred to the Japanese Government, Mr. Yoshizawa was willing on his own responsibility to send a copy of the credentials to the Waichiaopu. To this Dr. Koo caused the reply to be made that the presentation of such copy should be accompanied by a note in which the exact date of the presentation of the original was stated. As it was plainly impossible for the Japanese Legation to comply with that demand the matter had to be dropped there for the time being.

at the Waichiaopu. Dr. Koo wished to be able to receive Mr. Yoshizawa immediately on his arrival at the Ministry, a courtesy which he felt to be due to the representative of a friendly Power on his first visit, but to Dr. Koo's great disappointment Mr. Yoshizawa did not call at the appointed hour.

5. In the matter of calls on the Diplomatic Corps, when a new Foreign Minister assumes office, it has not been the customary practice to call on any new Minister who had not yet sent a copy of his credentials to the Foreign Office and requested an audience for presenting them, as these formalities, according to the general recognised international usuage and practice, are necessary to accompany the assumption of duties of a Minister and to enable the Foreign office to ascertain his official title and status. Dr. Koo in deferring to call on Mr. Yoshizawa last Tuesday merely followed the diplomatic usuage and practice here in Peking as well as abroad. To forestal any possible misunderstanding, however, the Chief of the Protocol Department had taken care to explain this point to the Japanese Legation the day before Dr. Koo made his round of calls on the Diplomatic Corps.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 30.—The following statement of the Japanese Legation concerning the question of credentials has been handed to Reuter's Agency:

On arriving at his post, Mr. Yoshizawa immediately notified the Diplomatic Corps and the Waichiaopu of his assumption of office. The wording of that notification was in exact conformity with precedents as indicated by the archives of the Japanese Legation. The record of the Legation shows that a new Japanese Minister notifies on the date of his arrival not only his colleagues but the Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs simply of his assumption of duties without any reference at all to his credentials, and that both the Diplomatic Corps and the Waichiaopu have always duly acknowledge receipt of such notification.

It is true that, under ordinary circumstances the new Minister's notification of his arrival is followed by his formal call at the Waichiaopu and by another note dealing with the question of the presentation of credentials. But it is a situation unique and unprecedented that Mr. Yoshizawa is faced with and of course there can be no question of asking for an audience. Apparently some modus vivendi has to be devised, a matter the discussion of which clearly requires more time than was available on the occasion of his first call at the Waichiaopu, so that Mr. Yoshizawa did not mention the matter at all, mentally reserving it for later consideration.

PARIS PEEVED BECAUSE LONDON DISCLOSED NOTE

French Refuse To Yield Inch In Stand Regarding Ruhr

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 1.—The third Cabinet meeting within 24 hours was held today to consider the French and Belgian replies. Secrecy is still maintained in official circles and this is not likely to be relaxed until Mr. Stanley Baldwin makes his statement in the House of Commons tomorrow on the holiday adjournment when there will be a full dress debate.

Meanwhile it is learned from a reliable source that the Government's examination of the French Note has definitely established the fact that it does not represent any appreciable advance on the part of French policy. It is admitted that there is no change of a joint Allied reply to Germany at present.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Aug. 1.—A semi-official statement expresses astonishment and regret at the reports from London with regard to the pessimistic feeling created by the French and Belgian replies.

It complains that, while French official circles have observed strict silence with regard to the British Note, similar reserve does not seem to have been shown in London with regard to the French reply. The French Government has not been asked to consent to publication of the correspondence between Britain and France, which is at present inopportune and could only advantage Germany as it would show the desire of the British Government to end negotiations.

The statement in conclusion asserts that the French are deeply attached to the Entente and do not yet wish to believe that their British Allies will take this decision before exhausting all means to secure an agreement.

The Del Monte

Manager Al Israel has again demonstrated that it is possible to put on a show better than the one that preceeded it. At the Del Monte the new ballet came up to all advance promises. It was clever, the costumes were original, the steps were good, the general effect was really artistic.

In addition to the new ballet number Madame Routkovsky sang for the first time. And Madame Routkovsky, let it be said, sings to the enjoyment of all She has a very good voice and sings as though she enjoys it, which means a great deal to the listeners. The other specialty numbers are all good and altogether the Del Monte's offering this week is worth going to see—and then to stay for the w.k. hamme and egges.

BUSINESS
BY TAIPAN

of the Hongkong trade act. A further reform that is necessary is to have American firms capitalised in China with headquarters and control out here instead of at home. And lastly but not lastly, it will be necessary for American firms to follow and emulate the example of other nationals in the training of their personnel.

For instance, the British, French, German and other firms here send out young men to China and select their men with a view to their making their careers in this country. These young men come out and get their training and go through every phase of the business viz. Buying, Selling, Shipping, Insurance, Financial, etc. By the time one of these men becomes a Taipan, he has gone through every department, has familiarised himself with all angles of the business, has been stationed at one time or another at one or all of the Company's outport branches and when he does reap the reward of becoming the Chief executive, he has not only gained the necessary experience, but has gotten the confidence and respect of the Trade and essentially that of his Bankers.

Contrast this with the system under which American Executives have to operate and are expected to make good. Men are sent out already matured, with set ideas formed, based on their former experience at home but on their arrival in China they find everything so different and so diametrically opposed to all their ideas and conceptions that they either try to run things "homeside fashion" and bump into snags, or they get attacks of nerves and become generally fed up and go home cursing China and her business ways. There are naturally exceptions to this rule, but the men who stick here and adapt themselves to the new ways are few and far between.

American Executives, who already carry a horse's burden, are further handicapped in the financing of business in this country, which while not complex is nevertheless of a character to call for the utmost conservatism and sound judgment. The Bankers help a great deal with a timely word or so and facilities of a liberal nature, provided the Executive has earned the confidence of the Banker. But, unfortunately, it happens so often out here that just as soon as the Executive and the Bankers have arrived at a solid working understanding, Headquarters decides to change their manager; a new man is sent out, and the Bankers naturally view such repeated changes with some misgiving, and are often inclined to go slow until the new man "proves" himself.

The real trouble with American Firms is that their staffs do not come to China to settle down but merely to gain 3 or 4 years Oriental experience and then go home. It is a peculiar commentary that of the great numbers of American Firms in this country, with one or two exceptions, the majority of the Executives are people who have been in China only from 4 to 6 years, and the constant changing of such Executives cannot be but detrimental to such firms and American interests in general.

Summed up, American Trade in China requires a Trading Act that will be the equal of the Hongkong ordnance, capitalisation and control in China instead of in America, vested interests in China in the way of Office Buildings—godown—and export installations—and lastly the training of staffs in China who will be prepared to stay in this country and make their careers in this land. If American capitalists will realise and live up to these requirements there is no reason why the trade between China and the U.S.A. should not be in American hands instead of in the hands of competitors of other nationalities.

The program had been slightly modified since then.

themselves by" seemed to play little or no part in his decision.

The drafting of the Constitution seems to have become a fetish recently and all the "small talk" concerns it. After the "Great Marshal" not only sanctioned its drafting but even went so far as to heartily to endorse it, all the lesser Tuchuns and their satillites hastened to get on the Band Waggon before it was too late.

Probably no country in the world would have carried on as long as China has without an executive head, without an active Cabinet, and without a parliament. "Business as usual," is the attitude which all the merchants and traders have adopted. Business without a government, but withal the same guarantees of delivery, of commercial honesty and zeal as during the time when the de facto government existed.

I am absolutely convinced that such a situation could not have found a parallel in the United States, or in any other country in the Occident, and that despite our much vaunted civilisation and morals. As a case in point I remember being in Boston, Mass., during the time that the police force struck for some forty eight hours. The ultimatum was delivered at five o'clock in the afternoon, and five minutes later it was impossible to find a single uniformed officer of the law. Eight minutes after five, I counted no less than twenty gambling games, crap shooters, three card monte, shell games, and others too numerous to mention, taking place in the small plaza outside the Hotel Touraine, probably the most aristocratic of Boston's hostelries. As soon as darkness fell, organised looting took place all along Tremont and Boylestou streets, and the sound of breaking plate glass was alternated by the walls of the shopkeepers, as their merchandise was plundered. All this took place within the "Hub of Culture," not 100 years ago, but in the year of grace 1919.

It has become the fashion for foreigners visiting China to hold up their hands in holy horror, and stand aghast at the numerous bandit raids, the outlawry, the primitive feudal system, the relationship existing between Lord and Master and Fief and Vassal. It is not my desire to mitigate or condone for a single moment the acts of brigandage which are taking place daily in every province except Shansi, but the thought remains that it is only to be wondered at why there have not been more, and that unless some sort of system of control is established quickly and speedily, these isolated acts may develop into a definite trend, which if condoned, will assume the form of anarchy.

The innate differences between China and the rest of the world is that China has been governed for a score of centuries by customs which are traditional. Various Emperors strove with might and main to codify the laws without any great success, because each province was governed by a totally different system of customs and practises. What would apply to the Southerners of Kwantung was impossible in Shantung, and similarly the laws of Szechuen could not be applied to the Maritime Provinces, because of the difference in customs. Hence we find that since "Custom doth make cowards of us all," this same inborn heritage of implicit obedience to family, clan and tribal —and much later— Provincial customs, has been in more respects than one, the salvation of China, during her many periods of trial and tribulation.

However, we all agree that it is impossible to change the national life of a people within one or two generations, and although the foreign influence is making itself felt more and more, both in the national, economic and political life, we cannot hope to override the prejudices, fears, and above all, customs (be they good or bad), without a long period of education, and ability to prove conclusively that the "foreign method" of handling a situation is better than the Chinese way.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo in his address to foreign correspondents asked that the world defer judgment of China, until such a time as the principles of Democracy were fully established. His phrase that "Democracy in the making was uncomly" was particularly pertinent at the present time. All new movements are uncomly, because the customary paint gloss and smooth surface of civilisation are lacking, and we are permitted to see the "raw material" ruled by basic passions struggling valiantly to overcome almost superhuman obstacles.

It is impossible to say that the month of July was a period of inaction, since there was a great deal of action, but it was of such a varied and indistinct character that it is impossible to prophesy the results. In other words several volcanic disturbances might have been possible, without even creating so much as a ripple on the calm and placid surface of political existance. There were minor flurries occasioned by the two wars taking place in distant provinces, but their victories and defeats were purely of a minor character as affects the national life. The majority of the people of Chihli are not greatly interested in who wins or loses in Kwantung or Szechuen. In either event they, and those dependent upon them for support, are not vitally effected.

A possible split has threatened within the ranks of the Chihli militaristic group, charitably called a political party. Nearly one half of the members of Parliament have gone on a junket to Shanghai, and threaten to transfer the capital to the seaport. To bring them back to Peking, and into the political fold once again, the political leaders have issued the statement that July salaries will be paid tomorrow from a fund of $300,000 raised and "earmarked" for that express purpose. It is believed that the parliamentarians will see the errors of their ways and return.

Brisbane, August 1.—Interviewed by Reuter's correspondent the Japanese scientists who are visiting Queensland, ridiculed fear of a Japanese invasion. They said that the Japanese were only seeking prosperous trade relations and intellectual cooperation.

Count Yoshii, the leader of the party, said that Britain was acting rightly in establishing a naval base at Singapore, which was purely a defensive measure for the purpose of safeguarding peace.

UNEMPLOYMEUT TO CONTINUE AS BRITISH PROBLEN

No Hope Of Reducing Number Of Jobless To Less Than Million

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 1.—Reviewing unemployment in the House of Commons today Sir Montagu Barlow, the Minister of Labor, said that there was a difficult winter ahead.

The occupation of the Ruhr, which had at first seemed to assist improvement, had subsequently had the contrary effect. Nevertheless unemployment figures had steadily fallen to 1,185,000, but there was no hope of reduction below 1,000,000 this autumn.

Dealing with the Government plans to cope with the situation, the Minister mentioned that the whole amount sanctioned under export credits scheme had been borrowed and provision made for continuance of the scheme. Government departments were arranging to accelerate work. For example the Post Office was spending £000 000 on trunk telephone cables. The Government will also again help local authorities to launch new works such as tramways, and gas and electric undertakings.

Proposals amounting to several millions sterling had already been submitted and it was calculated that altogether 300,000 men would be employed. An abundant harvest was promised. Sir Montagu Barlow hoped that the Peace of Lausanne would result in an industrial boom but the ultimate solution of the problem would largely depend on restoration of the economic and industrial peace of Europe.

Wedding

MATTHEWS—PHILIP

Holy Trinity Cathedral was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Miss Jessie Philip, daughter of Mrs. A. Philip, of Huntley, Scotland became the bride of Mr. George Edgar Matthews, B.SC., F. R. E. S., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mathews, Wandsworth, London. The ceremony was performed by the Sub-Dean, Rev. C. E. Spencer.

The Cathedral was tastefully decorated with mid-summer flowers in a scheme of yellow and white. Mr. R. C. Young presided at the organ.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Capt. G. Philip, wore a becoming gown of ivory morocain crepe with over-dress of white silk lace and a veil of embroidered silk net. In lieu of the customary bouquet, the bride and bridesmaid carried fans of white ostrich feathers. Miss Amy I. Thomson acted as bridesmaid and Mrs. G. F. James was matron of honour. The bridesmaid wore a frock of pink silk with insets of lace and hat to match. The groom chose for his best man Mr. H. G. Huckstep, and Capt. F. Scurr acted as usher.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride, 36 Wongkashaw gardens, where a number of friends called to offer congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will spend their honeymoon in Hongkong. The bride wore for her going-away gown a georgette frock of gold colour with matching hat. Mr. Matthews is one of the assistant masters in the Public School for Boys, and Mrs. Matthews was, before her marriage, assistant mistress in the same school.

Political Prisoners To Be Arrested Without Reason

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 1.—Following a decision of the Free State Appeal Court to the effect that, as conditions of armed revolt no longer existed in Ireland, the Government was not entitled to detain thousands of prisoners under military custody, the Free State Parliament, in spite of the opposition of Labor Members, has rushed through a bill empowering the Government to arrest and detain for six months persons on no charge. The Minister of Home Affairs declared that the immediate release of the prisoners who had very recklessly made war against the State would be a great disaster.

French Wireless—News And Views

(French Wireless)

Paris, Aug. 1.—Interviewed by the "Intransigeant" the French Minister, M. Le Trocquer declared: "Our coal stocks in the Ruhr on the 15th July were 2,100,000 tons and our coke stocks 1,300,000 tons.

The press notes that the German bourgeois parties appear to be inclined to grant some truce to the Cuno Government. The Catholics even declare that it is necessary to await the effect which would be produced by the financial program submitted to the Reichstag. Only Socialists seem to have decided to fight against the half-measures provided by Herr Cuno.

The "Vorwaerts' declares that the syndicates have lost all confidence in the Government.

(French Wireless)

Paris, August 1.—The French newspapers remark that if the British press show some nervousness about the concordant replies of France and Belgium the tone is in no way unfriendly. The British newspapers which urge Premier Baldwin to take separate action also declare that a rupture between Paris and London would be regretable.

At the end of the Cabinet meeting of British Ministers which took place this morning a Reuter note pointed out that British opinion saw no hope for a common Allied reply to be sent to Germany.

It is still not known whether the British Government will give a separate reply to Germany but it is assured at London that it will make an effort to make it in such a manner that France might be able to join it eventually.

(French Wireless)

Paris, Aug. 1.—The Senate has resumed the examination of the project of the law voted by the Chamber of Deputies fixing the duration of active service and military obligations of all citizens. M. Deveze, the Minister of National Defence, delivered a speech in defence of the governmental project against the Socialists who stood for a six months service.

M. Deveze ended his speech stating: "The danger of the war is under-estimated in time and force of Germany, the seat of the hatred is at our gates. Germany has in no way disarmed morally. She has armed cadres of schupo, 4 millions of veterans and youth, who are equipped for revenge. It is said that she has no more material; we know about what amount has been destroyed but we do not know what remains because she has suppressed the control of armaments.

All international action with the aim of peace will only have more chance of success towards Germany if the latter will acquire the convitcion that in case she starts war she will be beaten."

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follow in their exchange circular for week ending yesterday:

Exchange: — After slight fluctuations the London price of silver at 30⅞ is ⅛d. lower than last week. The quotation for two months forward delivery is 30¾d. Our official rate for T-T on London went to 3-od., but to-day recovered to 3-0¼d. against a week ago. Our Exchange Market has ruled rather unsteady, on the whole an easy undertone prevails. There are few Export Bills appearing and those offering are keenly competed for as the demand for Gold Remittances exceeds the genuine cover offering, and at present rates silver can be obtained if wanted.

Of the silver bought by China for forward delivery about Tls. 6,000,000 value is reported as shipped and will be here before the 18th inst.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:—

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 25,142,000 a decrease of Tls. 213,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $34,310,000 an increase of $750,000.

Estimated value Tls. 49,845,000 as against Tls. 62,087,000 held at this time last year.

Gallopers Take Fourth Game From Marines In Rousing Finish

Posnecki Starts Fireworks In Seventh With Homer To Deep Center; Pepper And Thatch Punch Out Winning Run

By Westa

Last evening, just as the temple bells were tinkling their vespertinal tinkles and the plowmen were plodding their weary way homeward big Ed Posneckni took his hefty bludgeon in hand and busted one of Mr. Kelly's in shoots for a home run.

That left the Gallopers one run behind, nobody out, one more needed to tie, and brought Jawn Scott up, and what did Scotty do but crack out a beautiful single Howland, who already had walked on his two previous trips to the plate, figured he could make it a perfect day by sacrificing Scotty to second, so he laid down a perfect bunt on which Scotty ambled to the middle station while he was expiring at first. That brought Mr. Pepper to the fore, and as pepper was precisely the dish we needed at that stage of the proceedings, and as Mr. Pepper had some social debts to pay on account of his serious breaches of baseball etiquette in previous games it is pleasing to record that he paid them, with all accrued interest, by slashing out a beautiful single that pushed Scotty over with the tying run.

Well, here was a fine little summer house all nicely started, with walls and chimneys and windows and everything except the one thing needed to make it perfect, to wit, a nice Thatched roof.

"Jerry," said Herby Gallop to his second sacker, who was next up, "now's your chance to put a nice roof on our little summer house."

And Jerry promptly Thatched it with a solid crack past the flabbergasted Mr. Donovan, who was guarding second for the Marines.

That brought Pepper home with the salt, to say nothing of the hamme and eggse and the mustard and the strawberry shortcake and the corned beef and cabbage and the other delicacies that go to make a perfect banquet.

It was a good game to watch for those who had eyes to watch it with—which can't be said of some of the noisy dumbbells who felt themselves called upon to do the umpiring from the grandstand; loud mouthed goofs who wouldn't know a ball or a strike if they saw it walking down the middle of Nanking Road in broad daylight, but who are so painfully, suffocatingly wise in their own estimation that nothing except inability to cackle prevents them from going around telling hens how to lay eggs.

The Marines scored one in their first turn at bat on hits by Donovan and Benson, and in the second they got a couple of markers on a hit by Philpots and a wild heave by Scotty.

The Gallopers scored two in the first on consecutive hits by Bullard, Bills and Smith. Both Bills and Smith smashed out corking singles at later stages, but both came with two down. The Marines pulled a fast double play in the third. Howland walked and after Pepper had whiffed, Thatch hit one at Kelly. The pitcher tossed it to Donovan at second in time to beat Howland and the second sacker made a fast relay to first, choking Thatch.

One of the prettiest plays in the game came in the seventh. Gorman, who is without doubt the fastest runner that ever played here was on second, and took a big lead toward third. Scotty, turning quickly, snapped the ball to Bills, and Bills tagged the speedy center fielder with a yard to spare.

The box score:

| Marines | AB | R | H | O | A | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gorman cf | 4 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 0 | 1 |
| Donovan 2b | 3 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Benson ss | 2 | 1 | 2 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Olson c | 2 | 0 | 0 | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Kelly p | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 1 |

AMATEURS ARE OUT FOR BLOOD IN BOUTS TONIGHT

Neophyte Scrappers Battle In Ten Matches In Good Program

Ten bouts of all weights and classifications will be the feature of the amateur night program at the Stadium tonight. Manager Sullivan has gathered together twenty young men who have dreams of being conquerors in the realm of Fistiania—little boys and big boys—all with blood in their eye and a hope of delivering the w.k. knockout punch in the first second they climb into the ring.

Shanghai has a great deal of amateur talent that needs weeding out and tonight's exhibition will go a long way toward eliminating the would-be fighters and letting the classiest of the locals show their wares to the Stadium's customers

From the array of home talent that will climb into the squared circle tonight Manager Sullivan expects to find several boys that will make good cards on the regular Stadium bills. Some good boys at the right weight for the Filipino gladiators are especially needed just now, and as all the amateurs are well aware of that fact they are going to fight like demons possessed in the hopes of being the lucky individuals.

All the noviate scrappers have been going through vigorous training for the past few days and all twenty of them are confident that they are going to knock their respectable opponents for the proverbial row of tin pagodas. If you really want to see some good old fashioned slugging and some wicked glove work we'd suggest you drop into the gladiators emporium along about 9:15 o'clock tonight.

Grey Lag And Sande

Earl Sande on Greylag

FORM shown thus far this season has justified racing experts in calling Grey Lag, star of the Rancocas Stable, of which Harry Sinclair is owner, "the best handicap horse in America." This famous thoroughbred was never better. Under top weight, he has galloped home to victory after victory in racing classics run on New York tracks. The skillful piloting of Earl Sande, who has been called America's premier jockey, has done much to make Grey Lag so consistently successful.

Back-Hand Blows

Sports Editor: It is interesting to note that Jimmy Wilde in his contest with Pancho Villa for the world's championship repeatedly complained to the referee about Villa's back hand blows.

While complaining to the referee about such a blow in the second round Wilde was caught off his guard and received a right hand punch which so staggered him that he never recovered. On two other occasions during the progress of the fight Wilde complained about back handers on the grounds that during all his experience in American rings he had never known the blow to be allowed. The referee however seemed to think otherwise and would not allow the complaint.

Just previous to this fight Villa fought an eight-round go with Bobby Wolgast and lost on points. On this occasion also Villa resorted to the back hand punch and was at last warned by the referee and told that if he continued the practice he would be disqualified.

Now these referees could not both have been right and the writer is inclined to believe that the back hand punch is allowed neither in the States or England.

Perhaps some reader can throw light upon this subject.

HYGIENE IS USED AS A GUIDE BY CUPID IN VIENNA

Excellent Results Reported From Marriage Advice Bureau

Vienna—Professor Tandler, the Minister of Health of Vienna and generally regarded as one of the most prominent experts in hygienics in the world, has organised what is probably the greatest marriage advice bureau. It is conducted on highly scientific lines and has rendered good service thus far, but it has not been in existence long enough to enable one to make positive statements regarding its value.

"We in Vienna have been the pioneers in instituting a 'Marriage Advice Bureau' where those who are undertaking the reponsibilities of married life can seek free expert medical advice," said Tandler. "The physician in charge has facilities for calling into consultation various specialists, alienists or any opinion that a case may call for. The bureau is conducted on an entirely voluntary basis. I strongly opposed the idea of a compulsory medical certificate for marriage, on the grounds that it would only lead to evasions, as has been abundantly proved in America. It is a well known fact that in states where the certificate has been made compulsory young couples circumvent the law by the simple expedient of crossing the border into another state. Although the bureau has been in existence only half a year the demands on it have been so extensive that the hours of consultation already have had to be doubled.

"In each individual case," went on the professor, "heredity and the personal history of the individual have to be considered. It is true that our knowledge of the working of the laws of heredity is still in its infancy; however, an expert physician who has made a special study of this law can fairly determine, after a thorough personal examination of the individuals concerned, whether the union of couple is desirable from the point of view of society and the offspring. The main hereditary diseases with which these experts are concerned are tuberculosis, venereal diseases and mental afflictions. Of course, innumerable other complaints, hereditary as well as individually acquired, come into consideration."

Changing the topic, Professor Tandler said: Another very important branch of the work of the Vienna Town Council is providing free meals for school children. These were introduced in Vienna by Herbert Hoover at the worst time of want after the armistice. Since September, 1922, they have been conducted at the expense of the Vienna Community.

"Children declared in need of nourishment by the school physicians, of whom there are sixty in office (20 percent women), are provided with a midday meal at one of the fifty-eight food centers that have been established. These children receive suitable food and show a great improvement in health and bodily build. The cost of free meals for 1922 was 10,000,000,000 kronen, the total number of children dealt with having been 13,000; but with the present state of unemployment a considerable increase in numbers is to be expected.

"In spite of the need for rigid economy, neither sanitary and curative measures nor the conduct of scientific research has been allowed to suffer. By cutting down waste in every direction the means has been found to open two sanatoriums for tuberculosis (which has always been the scourge of Vienna) in the beautiful surroundings of Vienna during the last year, and a third very large one is in process of erection at Steinklamm near Mariazell, on the site of large military barracks. This should be finished in the course of the present year."

Professor Tandler mentions the following figures:

Under the monarchy there were 593 beds for the treatment of tuberculosis for the whole of Austria; that is, for 28,000,000 persons. At present Vienna alone possesses 400 beds, for a population of 1,800,000 persons.

He continued: "It is the deliberate policy of the Town Council to insist on contributions of parents and relatives in each case according to their capacity, and in this they are assisted by an exceedingly well conducted investigation department. I am glad to say that already an almost incredible improvement has been observed in the personal sense of responsibility of the population. The Community of Vienna spends daily at least 1,000,000,000 kronen for health and welfare—and this money is well invested."

Here we were interrupted by a visitor who brought a donation for poor students from an anonymous benefactor, which Professor Tandler received with a smiling 'Vivant

NORMAN TELLS ROTARIANS ABOUT ST. LOUIS CONFAB

K. P. Chen To Speak On Yunnan Next Week At Old Carlton

Mr. Hal Norman, past president of the Shanghai Rotary Club who was the Shanghai delegate to the International Convention of the Rotary Club at St. Louis, gave an exhaustive report at the weekly meeting of the local club yesterday on the world gathering as well as his experiences during his recent trip to America and Canada.

While Mr. Norman was one of the 10,000-odd delegates that attended the convention, his club and the country which he represented attracted a great deal of attention at the confab in St. Louis, Mr. Norman said, and he was received everywhere with the utmost courtesy.

The club yesterday decided to hold a moonlight houseboat trip to Woosung towards the end of the month. The next meeting which will be open to guests will be held at the old Carlton Cafe at 12:30 o'clock when Rotarian K. P. Chen will give an illustrated lecture on Yunnan, which he visited recently.

Mr. A. R. Hager reported on the arrangements made with local hotels in connection with the weekly meetings and the club decided to try them all out during the next four months. The Astor House, the Carlton Cafe, the Hotel Parisien and Eddie's Cafe are catering for the tiffin meetings for the coming year.

Further Hearing In Alleged 'Bank' Fraud Action

There was a further hearing in the Mixed Court before Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Yui yesterday of the case in which two men and two women were charged with defrauding the Sincere Store of $3,300 worth of jewelry and $200 in cash by means of orders issued on a "bank" which the men are alleged to have opened just for one day.

When the hearing opened Mr. I. Goldring, appearing for the Sincere Company, stated that the complainants did not wish to prosecute the second woman accused, being satisfied that when she acted as broker in the disposal of some of the jewelry she was ignorant of the manner in which they were obtained. She was accordingly discharged.

Detective Inspector Cruickshank, cross-examined by Mr. J. Salmon, who appeared for the girl mentioned, stated that all of the jewelry with the exception of a ring valued at $1,000 had been traced to the broker. A Mr. Wong had advanced $700 on some pendants and the other articles were placed with him without consideration.

An employe of the store testified to selling the articles to the wife of the first accused, who was accompanied by another woman. She presented native bank orders and was given $200 in change. This was on a Saturday and when a man was sent to the bank from the store he was told that it was then too late to cash the orders and that they should be brought back on Monday. On Monday the bank was found closed. Questioned by Mr. Kentwell, the witness stated that he would be able to recognise the other woman.

The second of the male accused stated that he was previously a newspaper reporter and had been engaged by the first accused, who organised the bank. He had not received any of the money realised from the jewelry. Under cross-examination he stated that he understood the men connected with the bank were men of good standing. He had known the first accused for three years and knew him to be a rich man and a shareholder in Sincere's.

The hearing was again adjourned.

Compradore Sues American Trading Co. At Tientsin

Young, late compradore of the American Trading Company, is suing the concern for Tls. 4,692 for salary and money alleged to have been advanced, and $3,907 listed under several headings. Mr. Simmang appeared for the plaintiff.

The American Trading Co., represented by Mr. F. J. Schuil, admits the claims, but has a counter-claim of Tls. 16,000 in excess of the amount admitted, for contracts alleged to have been signed by the assistant compradore on which losses were incurred for which the company had never been reimbursed. Judgment was taken under consideration.

Australia Will Stand With Britain In Ruhr Quarrel

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, August 1.—In the House of Representatives today Mr. S. M. Bruce, the Prime Minister, replying to Opposition criticism, defended participation in foreign affairs, declaring that the Imperial defence scheme will only be decided after a full survey of the whole situation. Mr. Bruce said that he was opposed to France creating another Alsace-Lorraine in the Ruhr but Australia was bound by Britain's policy.

The Prime Minister declared that he did not intend to dictate anyone's fiscal policy, but if he was unable to obtain a market in Britain for surplus Australian products, he would not hesitate to deal with other countries, some of whom had offered reciprocal treaties.

Magician Nicola Arrives

Nicola, the famous magician who opens at the Carlton theatre on Monday, August 6, arrived in Shanghai yesterday from Hong kong where he made a big hit among residents of the Colony with his magicial stunts.

Nicola has been in Shanghai before and has a fund of reminiscences of the old days here and also in Peking and Canton, where he took the first foreign show to be produced for the Chinese there. On his first visit to Peking ten years ago the Boy Emperor was one of his perpetual patrons.

The famous magician is on his second tour around the world and this time has played in practically every country on the globe, from African principalities to the Australian backbush. He has been a favorite wherever he has been because he is one of the fastest workers on the stage, producing fifty tricks in the thirty minutes he occupies on the stage. The first performance will be given on Monday.

SENATE TO BACK WORLD COURT, SPENCER'S VIEW

Asserts Distinction From League Must Be Clarified

Washington.—Just back from a trip of three months in Europe, Senator Selden P. Spencer, Republican, of Missouri, strongly commended the world court and declared the United States should join it, but would never join the League of Nations. He predicted the Senate would adopt a resolution under which this government would adhere to the court.

Senator Spencer holds that as a condition precedent to this country joining the world court it must be made clear by reservations that the United States is not entering the League of Nations. He believes the people are as much opposed to the League of Nations as ever, and that Europe is beginning to understand this country will never join the league.

"As to the world court," said Senator Spencer, "that is a different proposition. The court is already established, and no country is obliged to submit any controversy to it that it does not desire to submit."

He emphasised the idea that while the court was referred to in the Covenant of the League of Nations it was formed by a separate treaty.

"It is entirely outside of the League of Nations," said the Senator.

Senator Spencer said the method of picking judges should be changed so their selection would not be through the league. "This must be a condition precedent to our joining," he added.

"If the general public can't be made to understand that support of the court does not mean identification with the league it will be a serious thing in the campaign. But the American people will see the point and draw the distinction. And the proposition to join the court will be adopted by the Senate."

European nations will agree to this country entering the court on its own terms, according to Senator Spencer.

The Senator said he was requested by Secretary of Labor Davis to look into the reasons why there was so little migration of labor from France and Germany into this country.

"The reasons are perfectly clear," he added. "In France there is no unemployment. Moreover, the devotion of the French to their country is so great that the thought of emigration is not in the Frenchman's mind."

He predicted, too, it would continue to be small from Germany. "The reasons," he added, "are that the Germans are employed, they are not encouraged to come and they do not have the money."

He said Germany would be compelled to settle with France soon because of the Ruhr occupation.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Oh, many things I'd like to be,
For instance, I'd be proud
If other men looked up to me,
Set high above the crowd;
I'd like to be a leader who
Arranged affairs of state,
And thus become entitled to
A place among the great.

I'd like to be a millionaire;
I'd like to be a king,
And have fine uniforms to wear,
With braid and everything;
But, better still, I'd like to be
The boss of many men
Who all thought mighty well of me
And praised me, now and then.

I'd like to be a movie star,
With Charlie Chaplin's pay;
I'd like to spread my fame afar
As great men only may;
I'd like to be a champion
Whom all the world would cheer;
I'd like to strut around as one
Who filled his foes with fear.

I'd like to be supreme in art,
Or have a sage's mind;
I'd like to play a princely part,
And leave my cares behind.
But best of all, I'd like to be
The boss of many men
Who had a high regard for me
And said so, now and then.

Teething Children

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure. Even the most severe and dangerous cases are quickly cured by it. For sale everywhere.

Refuses To Marry To Enter U. S.

Miss Luise Hohloch

MISS Luise Hohloch, 19, a pretty, pink-cheeked girl, from Germany, refused to marry Gottlieb Broisch, of Philadelphia, when he called at Ellis Island Immigration Station, New York Harbor, to claim her as his bride, in accordance with arrangements he had made with her parents. She said she did not love him and would not purchase entry into the United States at the price of hypocrisy. Her pluck won, and she was admitted in the custody of the Travelers' Aid Society, where she was to remain until a position could be found for her.

Don't Make Judgment Depend On Wealth And Position

"Frequently I meet people who seem to be interested in me until I tell them the line of work in which I am engaged, and then they seem anxious to drop me, although it is honest, honorable and profitable labor. I am tired of trying to be somebody."

This sentence is taken from the letter of a Chicago young man.

His case is not unusual.

But it is a regrettable fact that the majority of persons pass judgment upon a man according to his wealth or his position.

In a so-called "genteel position," a man may earn only two-thirds as much as another in a more menial place and is thought more of—why?

Education and breeding may be equal, yet there is a distinction between the "white-collared" man's job and the other extreme.

This is one of the reasons why more young men are not making bigger wages today.

When society excludes a man of real worth because he soils his hands in pursuit of an honorable living, no matter how much he excels in his job, we are bound to hear constantly of the square plug in a round hole trying to earn a living at something for which he is unfitted.

August 2, 1923

Spot bar silver was unchanged and forward down 1-16d in London yesterday. The New York price is unchanged and the London-New York cross rate has declined to 457. The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Franc rate to 1200 and in the Hongkong rate to 74¾.

Our market in the early part of the morning was steady and became somewhat firm during the course of the day. While at one time business in Sterling was done at 3-0 7-16 for August and 3-0⅝ for September, there were alwasy good sellers at these rates and at the close there were sellers of Sterling at 3s. 0⅜d. for August delivery, 3s. 0½d for September and 3s. 0⅝d. for October.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 69¾ for near delivery and 69½ for forward. There were sellers of Yen at 70¼ for near delivery and 70¼ for forward.

Banks were quoting 3s. 1⅛d., 71¼ and 1240 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

China bought silver in London yesterday and the Continent sold, the market closing steady. New York report their market as steady.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, July 25:

Bar Silver 30⅞ ready 30⅞ forward on the 18th, fluctuated between this figure and 31⅛ ready 30⅛ forward and closed 30⅛—30⅝. New York-London Cross Rate 459⅝ on the 18th rose gradually to 459¾ on the 23rd and closed 459⅝. T.T. fell to 3s. 1⅛d. on the 18th inst., rose to 3s. 1⅜d. on the 23rd 3s. 1⅝d. on the 24th, closing at that rate. 4 m/s. have been steady all the week at 3s. 2⅝d. to 3s. 2¼d., but nothing appears to have come out. Business being dead. Market rates: Shanghai taels 96.9. Local currency $69.987. Native interest 3 percent.

Imports.—Piece Goods: The market is very quiet and these is nothing doing as is usual at this season of the year. Prices for blacks are firmer white grey and whites are a little easier.

Yarn:—Market dull-nothing to report. Clearances have fallen off.

Exports.—There is no change to report in conditions which still remain stagnant. There has been some enquiry from Europe for new sesamum seed during the week but prices are far below ideas at this end. Horsebeans continue to be ignored and it is now generally realised that this year's crop is of an extremely poor quality. The wood oil markets everywhere remain inactive, and in the absence of demand there is a slight tendency to weakness in some of the interior markets.

Analysis of exports for week ending July 20:

Cow hides to Shanghai 316, France 132, Germany 312, Italy 58 and Japan 80 piculs.

Buffalo hides to America 251 piculs.

Interesting Case Before Lobingier In Tientsin Court

Tientsin, August 1.—Will the United States Court for China intervene to halt execution of a judgment obtained by an American citizen in a Chinese tribunal against a Russian? This is the singular question raised in a suit being heard by Judge C. S. Lobingier at sessions the court is holding in northern centers.

The title of the suit is Moschitsky versus Barkovitch and according to testimony introduced at a hearing in Tientsin Barkovitch, who is an American sued Moschitsky who is a Russian on an eight-year-old bill of exchange in the Chinese court at Harbin and obtained a judgment from this tribunal. In connection with an appeal that Moschitsky took in the case to the Chinese higher court at Peking he also filed the suit Judge Lobingier is hearing in the United States Court for China. In this action he is asking for an injuction that will restrain Barkovitch from carrying into effect the judgment given in the Harbin court.

According to the defense being put forward it is contended that issuance of an injunction of the kind asked for by the American court would mean unwarranted interference wtih the judicial processes of the Chinese court at Harbin and with that tribunal's jurisdiction over Russians in Harbin.

Following giving of considerable testimony at Tientsin further hearings in the case will be held at Harbin.

Japanese In The Philippines

Californians opposed to Japanese immigration should hesitate to use the situation in the Philippine Islands as instance in proof of the danger which they themselves claim to fear. "There is no greater unwisdom in argument," once wrote Charles James Fox, "than to claim too much." Not long ago, in presenting a case to the Federal Supreme Court, the present Attorney-General of the "Golden State" declared: "We have already lost the Philippines. The Japanese dominate there now." Here, surely, is a statement fitly to be classed as "important, if true"—with emphasis on the "if."

The population of South Pacific archipelago, over which the Stars and Stripes has flown for twenty-five years, is slightly more than 10,251,000. Of these, only 63 070 are foreigner, non-Filipinos.

The official figures now read:

|---|---|
| Chinese | 43,802 |
| Japanese | 7,806 |
| American | 5,776 |
| Spanish | 3,945 |
| British | 1,148 |
| French | 132 |
| Swiss | 125 |

Is it possible that 7,806 of these so "dominate" the other 55,264 that an American may say accurately: "We have lost the Philippines"? If that be the fact, those subjects of the Mikado must be, indeed, Machiavellian to a hitherto unknown degree. Of the 6,017 merchants in Manila, twenty-seven are Japanese. Can it really be they "dominate" the trade of a city of 283,628? In such case their capacity must well beyond anything yet known elsewhere the would around.

The Philippino Customs Bureau shows that the Japanese arrivals in the island during 1919 reached the total of 1,352, and, though the figure fell in 1920 to 952, that the two years did give an aggregate of 2,304. But turn the penny, as one always has to do in this matter of population ebb and flow and it appears that in 1921, 11,222 Japanese emigrated—went back to their "home" isles. The fact is, these particular Orientals do not like the climate of the territory which the United States now governs between the China and Celebes seas. It is too tropical for them. Its combination of high mean annual temperature and superabundant moisture does not suit this folk, accustomed to the more moderate conditions of Dai Nippon. The same holds true of the Netherlands' East Indies. In that extended Dutch colony less than 10,000 in a population of above 49,000,000 are Japanese. The fact appears still again in Japan's own Formosa. Here is an island next door to the homeland, with scarce a third of the population of the Philippines, and directly governed, of course, from near-by Tokio, whence every effort is made to encourage native colonisation of Taiwan, yet with next to no success.

When (or if) the Philippines authorities wish to curtail the most modest demands which the Japanese today make upon their insular hospitality, they have a law ready to their hands: the immigration of foreigners into the archipelago is governed specifically by statutes now on the books. But those officials show not the faintest shadow of intention of any such sort. They see no menace. They dread no "domination." Nor do the facts suggest that they should.—Christian Science Monitor.

Amalgamation Of Medical Schools In North Planned

Tsinan, Aug 1.—It is stated that the amalgamation of the North China Women's Medical Shool of Peking with the Medical School of Peking with the Medical University has progressed so satisfactorily that it is expected to have it completed by the end of this year.

The work on the dormitories is going ahead and the first class in premedicine as well as the first class in medicine of the Women's School will begin work at Tsinan this autumn. The advanced classes and those members of the faculty who are to move to Tsinan, will come by the end of 1923.

This combining of the school in Peking with that in Tsinan, adds co-education to this inter-denominational and international union of nine missionary societies.

At the close of the summer medical school held under the auspices of the Council on Health Education of Shanghai, in the Shantung University, it was announced that the success had been so marked that an effort would be made to run a similar school next summer.

The Attack On The s.s. Alice Dollar

YESTERDAY we reported Chinese soldiers deliberately firing on the British Consul at Amoy while he was on a motorboat endeavoring to reach a steamer bound for Hongkong. We also reported that two British gunboats had been dispatched from Hongkong to protect British interests at Amoy.

Today we regret to report a still more serious outrage. A Chinese "General" boarded the s.s. Alice Dollar at Ichang with his bodyguard of a dozen soldiers and demanded accommodations which, it is evident, the captain of the ship was unable to supply. The "General" thereupon assaulted the captain and in the melee that followed his soldiers opened fire. The captain and three foreign women passengers were wounded. A call for help was answered by marines from the American warship Isabel, flag ship of the Yangtsze patrol, who seized the "General" and his bodyguard and at this writing are still holding them prisoners, awaiting word from Admiral Phelps.

In some of its aspects this outrage is worse than that perpetrated by the Lincheng bandits. After all the latter were bandits, and they attacked a Chinese train which ought to have been protected by Chinese soldiers. In this case Chinese solders have attacked a peaceful American merchant ship, have attempted to deprive the American captain of his rightful authority as commander of the vessel, have attempted in fact to seize the ship, have fired upon and wounded not only the captain and members of the crew but the foreign passengers, women at that, who were under the protection of the American flag.

Fortunately the American warship was close at hand and by prompt action her men succeeded in boarding the ship, quelling the incipient massacre and capturing the murderous squad of soldiers. It is not difficult to imagine the shambles these cutthroats would have turned the ship into but for this timely arsistance. We hope that this "General" and his bodyguard will be held in American custody until assurances are received of their authentic trial and punishment.

We are not sea-lawyers, but it would appear to us that these men have been captured by Americans aboard an American ship while committing an act of piracy and that therefore they ought to be tried by their captors on that charge. Talking back and forth with the Chinese government is the most futile of pursuits, and the talking if thought necessary could go on just the same after the trial and punishment of this particular baker's dozen.

We understand that the Robert Dollar Company has filed a strong protest with Dr. Schurman, the American Minister to Peking and has demanded a return to the system adopted several years ago whereunder armed guards were carried on every American ship operating in the upper Yangtsze. But this in our opinion is not enough. The matter should be taken up with Washington and the strongest measures for the control and protection of American shipping insisted upon. The American Chamber and the American Association doubtless will see the need for prompt and vigorous action in this direction. Beyond this, adequate indemnities both for the ship and for the wounded foreigners who have been subjected to this indignity should be exacted.

In Shanghai, and especially in the m. or l. hot weather we are now having, a man enjoys being chased by a female of the species to some extent, but he hates like the dickens to be run down!

Prohibition At First Hand

For the past six months Mr. S. K. Ratcliffe has lectured from end to end of the United States. No English writer has a longer and more thorough acquaintance with American life and opinions.

BY S. K. RATCLIFFE

Tomorrow is, in a certain sense, The Day for the Wets in America. On June 10 the Supreme Court's ruling on the confiscation of all liquor held on foreign ships within the three-mile limit is understood to come into force.

As an Englishman I naturally dislike nearly all interferences with the personal life. As a Liberal I abhor every form of fanaticism, or whatever seems to me such. Hence, in this great (and, for us English, new) conflict between Wet and Dry, I ought obviously to be wet, or at least anti-dry.

You would expect me to laugh with the easy jesters against Prohibition, and to delight in the stream of sensational stuff from New York that passes nowadays for news of Dry America.

NOAH'S ARK PROHIBITIONISTS

Well, I am not, and I don't. Whenever, on the other side of the Atlantic, I hear an apostle of the Anti-Saloon League holding forth, I confess that I am repelled and appalled. I am not on his side, in anything. His view of society and citizenship, of freedom and tolerance is monstrous. In England, he would be merely an affrighting curiosity. The Duke of Northumberland or a Kensit preacher would seem by comparison an angel of enlightenment. But, happily, Prohibition in the United States is not identical with the Anti-Saloon League. I am not greatly troubled about it, or about certain associates of that pleasant person, Pussyfoot Johnson. It is something quite other that arouses my concern; namely, the steady indifference, the mood of ignorant credulity, and ignorant contempt displayed by the English people in the presence of the most stupendous social experiment ever devised by mankind.

Now I will, to begin with, put myself square with the reader on two essential points. First, I am no missionary; never in my life have I printed a teetotal article or made a teetotal speech. Secondly, I do not write as a casual visitor to the United States or a hasty observer of Prohibition at work. For the past ten years I have gone up and down in the United States. I have visited and spoken in, hundreds of cities and towns, and have talked with thousands of American citizens. I have watched America going dry, from the rush of legislation which came just before the war, down to the revolt of Governor "Al" Smith and the wild judgment of the Supreme Court which assaults alike the sovereignty of the seas and the European sense of decency.

FOUR HARD FACTS

And I come back to England, this time after a journey across the continent to the Pacific, more convinced than ever of certain things which I will set down as plainly as may be:

(1) That the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, by which National Prohibiton was established in 1920, stands, and cannot be repealed;

(2) That the American people, though they may modify the strictness of enforcement, will not allow it to become a dead-letter, as certain other constitutional amendments have become;

(3) That the social and economic results of National Prohibition are extraordinary, and, so far as they go, convincing;

(4) And that by reason of them, and of the mental make-up of Anglo-Saxon America, the western continent, from the Mexican border to the Arctic seas (i.e., including British Canada), will adhere to the exclusion of intoxicating liquor as a settled social policy.

The reasons for asserting these things dogmatically appear to me overwhelming; and, so far as I can see, they are not materially damaged by the facts on the other side, which are shameful and humiliating.

SMUGGLING AND BRIBERY

As to the grotesque abominations of smuggling and bribery, we must believe all the stories. It is true that the police and the enforcement agents are rotten with corruption; that boot-legging is a high road to wealth; that the man who wants "hootch," who means to get it and is ready to pay and take the risk, can get all he wants; that the exploits of the Cocktail Route from Canada or the West Indies transcend everything known or imagined of the old Spanish Main; that many people drink more than they did, and that wood alcohol has brought in a hideous form of poisoning; that a new sort of hypocrisy is raging and law-breaking now counts as a pleasure among the bourgeoisie.

All this, and more, has to be acknowledged. My own experience leads me to infer that with-in a limited class there is more drinking than there was in the markedly sober period just before the war. If anyone tells me that in households of the nicer kind today the preprandial cocktails are apt to be more frequent, and that the abstainers are fewer, I should not deny it. If you point to the evidence of revived drinking in the colleges and of the perilous habit of carrying "something on the hip" at young people's parties, I should agree; while, even worse, clearly, is the general and shocking violation of the law, and the common attitude towards it. "It don't seem," said the old negro, "like it can be a good law when 'most all the best people are breaking it." A friend who showed me the close-packed locker-room in a wonderful new clubhouse put it in another way: "Men won't obey the law," said he, "that's all there is to it."

Many of these phenomena are accidental or temporary; that, I think, will be proved. But here comes Governor Alfred Smith, of New York, who has signed the new Act which repeals the enforcement law of the State, thereby defiantly notifying President Harding that if Prohibition is to be enforced in the most populous and powerful State in the Union, the Federal Government must do it alone. This is, of course, a quite tremendously interesting move which may well have results that will permanently affect the politics and law of the Republic. But it would be foolish for our Wets to infer that Governor Smith has taken the first step to national repeal, and for himself the first step to the White House. If, as is alleged, the Governor's friends told him that, they must have thought he would believe anything. The simple fact is that Governor Smith, having privately promised repeal, was unable to refuse the signature, which leaves him exactly what he was before—a good party man who cannot be President of the United States.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S VIEW

I come now to the grounds of the belief I have ventured to affirm dogmatically, as to the permanence of national Prohibition.

First, there is the constitutional fact. Prohibition is written into the organic law of the Union. No political leader does or will suggest that the Amendment can be repealed. I have put the point to scores of public men in every region; not one has hinted at the possibility. This, indeed, is almost the only matter upon which President Harding, who does not take his ear from the ground, has spoken in hard, simple terms. The Wets themselves, knowing the fact, do not ask for constitutional repeal. They attack the Volstead Enforcement Act. Their idealist slogan is, "Light wines and beer now; the saloon never!"—the saloon being, as everyone knows, dead and damned. And the Drys retort, "Where, then, will the beer be sold?"

LABOR RELIGION, WOMEN

Secondly, there are the socio-economic forces behind Prohibition. The employing class, which rules America, is for it. The banks, the courts, the relief societies, the social workers tell their story, in statistics and otherwise. Organised Labor, despite the occasional outbursts of old Mr. Gompers, has not opposed. The Protestant churches are immovable. And anyone who thinks the women's vote to be alterable, or who imagines that the delightfully-named Molly Pitcher Clubs, composed of anti-dry, well-to-do women, are going to moisten the mass, may be advised to seek the companionship of Mr. G. K. Chesterton.

Thirdly, there is public opinion in its geographical distribution. Enforcement is a problem, a terrific problem of the great centers, and mainly the coast cities. The South is dry, because of the Negro. The rural West is dry, and no one dreams it can ever be otherwise. From the Mississippi to the Rockies it is not even an issue. The enormous small-town vote is secure. "Prohibition," said a wise American the other day, "is the policy of Main-street; and America lives on Main-street."

And finally, there is the American climate. It is exhilaratingly, marvellously dry. Upon American air and ice-water our friends sustain without effort the highest known voltage of human energy.

I am tempted to add a personal word upon a minor, but still important, matter. The excellent Dean of Windsor, lately in America, and the right thing to the New York reporters when they asked him the inevitable question about Prohibition: "The foreigner in another country should respect its laws." If the British Embassy in Washington had gone dry, and had announced this simple reason for its action, the cause of Anglo-American friendship would have gained ten times more than it has gained from the war-debt settlement.

GOVERNOR GENERAL WOOD AND THE PHILIPPINE LEGISLATURE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: In the local newspapers news has been published of the existence of a political crisis in the Philippine Government.

A year ago, when the Second Philippine Independence Mission returned to the Philippines from the United States, the present president of the Philippine Senate, Hon. Manuel L. Quezon, in his speech delivered on August 20, 1922, before the American members of the Rotary Club of Manila, foreseeing the present political crisis, made the following statements:

"There may be some individual Americans here and in the United States who might think that the prestige of the people of the United States is involved in the question of whether or not the Philippines will have the very best government that the people can ever have. And that for this matter they prefer to see the continuation of an American controlled government in the Philippines than a government controlled by Filipinos. I have to admit that talking with some of the Americans, I have found them sincere. They really believe that the orderly development of this country is dependent upon the control of the Government being retained by the Americans. I don't want to discuss that question now. It is unnecessary for it is a purely academic question now.

"The answer of the President to the Philippine Mission says, 'We are not going to take any steps backward, and if we do take any step, it will be forward. That being the case, an American-controlled government in the Philippines is a thing of the past. If this was ever going to be done, it would have been done at the time that President Harding took the presidency of the United States. Many people thought he would do so. He sent here a mission the report of which might have been good ground for making that step backward. He appointed a Governor General who has great capacity for work, and whose personality is strong enough to have absorbed all the functions of this government.

"Well, Governor General Wood has been governing for one year and he knows that he cannot govern the Philippines alone. The terms of the Jones Law do not permit, and even if he would like to do so he cannot do it. He has got to count upon the Filipinos that have been elected by the people in governing the Philippines, so I say that this is a thing of the past. Let us, therefore, dismiss this purely academic question and accepting this fact, let us make the best of it. I say that the best we can do is to have a purely Filipino government, and you will agree very soon with me. We don't see any trouble now, because Governor Wood is getting along nicely with all of us. Everybody is singing his praise, but nobody knows how long that is going to last.

"The trouble with the present government is that it is a government with divided responsibilities, and it is inviting trouble all the time. Suppose we had a governor general here that is not as wise as Governor General Wood and we have Filipinos in the Government who are not as wise as all of us, Democratas, Nacionalistas and Colectivistas. If the Filipinos make a mess of that government, they will say: 'Well, it is the fault of the governor general,' even though it may be their fault. If the governor general makes a mess of it, he can say 'It is the fault of the Filipinos.'

"You can't place the responsibility where it belongs, because it belongs to nobody. So the best thing to do since we cannot return to a government that is absolutely composed of Americans is to go ahead and have a government controlled absolutely by Filipinos. Then you will see whether we make a mess of it or not. If we make a mess of it, ception Lord did not even have then you will know where to place the responsibility. I am very optimistic."

The form of government established by the United States in the Philippines, since the early days of the American occupation, is of the people, by the people and for the people. When the American Congress, on August 29, 1916, passed the Act, now commonly known as the Jones Law, it made the following specific provisions:

"It is, as it has always been, the purpose of the people of the United States to withdraw their sovereignty over the Philippine Islands and to recognise their independence as soon as a stable government can be established therein."

"For the speedy accomplishment of such purpose it is desirable to place in the hands of the people of the Philippines as large a control of their domestic affairs as can be given them without, in the meantime, impairing the exercise of the rights of sovereignty by the people of the United States, in order that, by the use and exercise of popular franchise and governmental powers, they may be the better prepared to fully assume the responsibilities and enjoy all the privileges of complete independence."

In the United States, the President of the Republic is directly responsible to the American people who can render their judgment on presidential policies through the powerful weapon of the polls. In the Philippines, the responsibility and authority of the government is distributed and divided into two units or institutions, which are separate and independent from each other. On the one hand, there exists the Governor General of the Philippines, vested with responsibility and authority, who is not responsible to the Philippine Legislature or to the Filipino people, but directly to the President of the United States who appoints him. On the other hand, there stands the Philippine Legislature, vested also with responsibility and authority, which is directly responsible to the Filipino people who elect its members by popular vote. If differences of opinion between these two powers have arisen or will ever arise, that is but natural among men who are endowed with the inalienable right and freedom to think and act. However, in case of any difference of opinion in the shaping of public policies between these two powers, which of them can be blamed for the responsibility of the Philippine Government?

The present political crisis in the Philippines has only one possible solution, and that is the immediate recognition of the complete independence of the Philippines, as promised in the Act of the United States Congress of August 29, 1916, in view of the fact that the stable government, required as condition precedent, has been already established by the Filipinos.

Mr. Dooley: On Machinery

BY FINLEY PETER DUNNE

Mr. Dooley was reading from a paper. "We live," he says, "in an age iv wondhers. Niver befure in th' histhry iv th' wurruld has such progress been made."

"Thrue wurruds an' often spoken. Even in me time things has changed. When I was a lad Long Jawn Wintworth cud lean his elbows on th' highest buildin' in this town. They wasn't anny tillygraft that I can raymimber an' th' sthreet car was pulled be a mule an' dhruv be an engineer be th' name iv Mulligan. We thought we was a pro-grissive people. Ye bet we did.

"But look at us today. I go be Casey's house tonight an' there it is, a fine two storey-an'-a-half frame house, with Casey settin' on th' dure shtep dhrinkin' out iv a soda water bottle with a sthraw.

"I go be Casey's house tomorrah an' it's a hole-in' th' groun. I return to Casey's house on Thursdah an' it's a fifty-eight sctory buildin' with a morgedge onto it an' they're thinkin' iv 'taken' it down an' replacin' it with a modhern sthructure.

"Th' shoes that Corrigan th' cobbler wanst wurruked on f'r a week, hammerin' away like a woodpecker, is now tossed be th' dozens fr'm th' mouth iv a masheen.

"A cow goes lowin' softly in to Armour's an' comes out glue, beef, gelatine, fertylizer, celooloid, joolry, sofy cushions, hair restorer, washin' sody, soap, lithrachoor an' bed springs so quick that while aft she's still cow, for'ard she may be annything fr'm buttons to Pannyma hats. I can go fr'm Chicago to New York in eighteen hours, but I don't have to, thank th' Lord.

"Thirty years ago we thought 'twas marvelous to be able to tillygraft a man in Kalamazoo an' get an answer that night. Now ye can get an answer befure ye find th' tillygram if they ain't careful. Me friend Macroni has done that. Be manes iv his wondher iv science a man on a ship in midocean can sind a tillygram to a man on shore, if he has a confid'rate on board. That's all he needs. Be a mechanical science an' thrust in th' op'rator annywan can set on th' shore iv Noofoundland an' chat with a frind in th' County Kerry.

"Yes, sir, mechanical science has made gr'reat sthrides. Whin I was a young man we used to think Hor'ce Greeley was th' gr-reatest livin' American.

"He was a gran' man, a gran' man, with feathers beneath his chin an' specs on his nose like th' windy's in a diver's hemlet. His polidcks an' mine cudden't live in th' same neighborhood, but he was a gran' man all th' same. He was th' boy that cud put it to ye so that if ye voted th' dimmycrat tikit it was jus' th'h same as demandin'" a place in purgatory. Th' farmers wud plant annything fr'm a rutybaga to a congressman on his advice. He niver had money enough to buy a hat, but he cud go to th' sicrety iv th' threasury an' tell him who's pitcher to put on th' useful valentines we thrade f'r groceries.

"But if Hor'ce Greeley was cap'n iv his yacht, an' Hor'ce, me frind Pierpont Morgan waitin' Afther awhile th' boy at th' durs says: 'Ye're next, ol' party. Shtep lively, f'r th' boss has had a Weehawken Peerooginy sawed off on him this mornin' an' he mustn't be kep' waftin.'

"An' th' iditor goes in. 'Who ar-re ye?' says th' gr-reat man, givin' him wan iv thim piercin looks that whin a man gets it ne has to be sewed up at wanst.

"'I'm ye'er iditor,' says Hor'ce. 'Which wan?' says Pierpont. Number two hundhred an' eight. What's ye'er spishilty?' 'Tahriff an' th' improvemint iv th' wurruld,' says Hor'ce. 'See me sicrety,' says Pierpont, an' th' intherview is over.

"Now what's made th' change? Mechanical science, Hinnissy. Some wan made a masheen that puts steel billits within th' reech iv all. Hince Charlie Schwab.

"What's it done f'r th' wurruld? says ye. Its 'done ivrything. It's give us fast ships an' an autymatic hist f'r th' hod, an' small flats an' a taste iv solder in th' peaches. If annybody says th' wurruld ain't betther off thin it was tell him that a masheen has been invinted that makes honey out iv pethrolyum.

"If he asts ye why they ain't anny Shakesperes today, say: 'No, but we no longer make sausages be hand.'

"'Tis pro-gress. We live in a cinchry iv pro-gress an' I thank th' Lord I've seen most iv it. Man an' boy I've lived pretty near through this wondherful age. If I was proud I cud say I seen more thin Julyus Caesar iver see or cared to.

"An' here I am, I'll not say how old, still pushin' th' 'modified malt' acrost the counther at me thirsty counthrymen. All around me is th' reminemints iv mechanical janius. Instead iv broachin' th' near-beer keg with a club an' dhrawin' th' beer through a fassit as me Puritan forefathers done, I have that wondher iv invintive science th' beer pump. I cheat mesilf with a cash raygisther.

"I cut off th' end iv me good cigar with an injanyous device an' pull th' cork out iv me hip bottle with a conthrivance that wud've made that frind that Hogan boasts about, that ol' boy Archy Meeds, think they was witcheraft in th' house.

"Science has been a gr-reat blessin' to me. But amidst all these granjoors here am I th' antiquated combination iv bellows an' pump I always was. Not so good. Time has sworn me out. Th' years like little boys with jack-knives has carved their namee in me top. Ivry day I have to write off something f'r deprecyation. 'Tis about time f'r whoiver owns me to wurruk me off on a thrust. Mechanical science has done ivrything f'r me but help me.

"Th' pa-apers tells me that midical science has kept pace with th' hop-skip-an'-a-jump iv mechanical ing-nooty. Th' doctors has found th' mick-robe iv ivrything fr'm lumbago to love an' fr'm jandice to jealousy, but if a brick bounces on me head I'm crated up th' same as iv yore an' put away.

"Rockyfeller can make a pianny out iv a bar'l iv crude ile, but no wan has been able to make a blade iv hair grow on his head.

"They was a doctor over in France that discovered a kind iv a thing that if 'twas pumped into ye wud make ye live till people got so tired iv seein' ye around they cud scream. He died th' nex' year iv premachure ol' age.

"They was another doctor cud insure whether th' nex' wan wud be a boy or a girl. All ye had to was to decide wud it be Arthur or Ethel an' lave him know. He left a fam'ly iv unmarredgeable daughters.

"I sometimes wondher whether progress is anny more thin a kind iv a shift. It's like a merry-go-round. We get up on a speckled wooden horse an' th' mechanical pianny plays a chune an' away we go, hollerin.' We think we're thravelin' like th' divvle, but th' man that doesn't care about merry-go-rounds knows that we will come back where we were. We get out dizzy an' sick an' lay on th' grass an' gasp: 'Where am I? Is this th' mellin-yum? An' he says: 'No, 'tis Ar-rchey road.'

"Father Kelly says th' Agyptians done things we cudenn't do an' th' Romans put up a sky-scraper an' aven th' Chinese had tilyphones an' phonygrafts.

"I've been up to th' top iv the very highest buildin' in town, Hinnissy, an' I wasn't anny nearer hivin thin if I was in th' sthreet. Th' stars was as far away as iver.

"An' down beneath is a lot iv us runnin' an' lapin' an' jumpin' about, pushin' ach other over, haulin little sthrips iv irn to pile up in little buildin's that ar-re called sky-scrapers, but not be th' sky; wurrukin' night an' day to make a masheen that'll carry us fr'm wan jack-rabbit colony to another an' yellin, 'Pro-gress!'

"Pro-gress, oho! I can see th' stars winkin' at each othe. an' sayin'; 'Ain't they funny? Don't they think they're playin' hell!'

"No, sir, masheens ain't done much f'r man. I can't get up anny kind iv fam'ly inthrest f'r a steam dredge or a hydhraulic hist. I want to see sky-scrapin' men. But I won't We're about th' same inflammable an', perishyable mateeryal, an exthra hazardous risk, unimproved an' liable to collapse.

"We do make pro-gress, but it's th' same kind Julyus Caesar made an' ivry wan has made befure or since an' in this age iv masheenery we're still burrid be hand."

NEW GEMS by O. HENRY

A Treasure-Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

TOO WISE

THERE is a man in Houston who keeps quite abreast of the times. He reads the papers, has traveled extensively and is an excellent judge of human nature. He has a natural gift for detecting humbugs and fakirs, and it would be a smooth artist indeed who could impose upon him in any way.

Last night as he was going home, a shady-looking man with his hat pulled over his eyes stepped out from a doorway and said:

"Say, gent, here's a fine diamond ring I found in de gutter. I don't want to get into no trouble wid it. Gimme a dollar and take it."

The Houston man smiled as he looked at the flashy ring the man held toward him.

"A very good game, my man," he said, "but the police are hot after you fellows. You had better select your rhine-stone customers with better judgment. Good night."

When the man got home he found his wife in tears.

"Oh, John," she said, "I went shopping this afternoon and lost my solitaire diamond ring. Oh, what shall I—"

John turned without a word and rushed back down the street, but the shady looking man was not to be found.

His wife often wonders why he never scolded her for losing the ring.

A QUESTION OF LOYALTY

Two men were talking at the Grand Central depot yesterday, and one of them was telling about a difficulty he had recently been engaged in.

"He said I was the biggest liar ever heard in Texas," said the man, "and I jumped on him and blacked both his eyes in about a minute."

"That's right," said the other man, "a man ought to resent an imputation of that sort right away."

"I wasn't exactly that," said the first speaker, "but Tom Achiltree is a second cousin of mine, and I won't stand by and hear any man belittle him."

Australian Gems

At one time Australian gems were marketed in Europe, through an agency, but that arrangement has long since ceased. The State Government of Queensland has decided to control the marketing of all sapphires mined in that State of the Australian Commonwealth.

The proclamation acquiring the gems sets out that all sapphires, other than orange, golden, yellow, parti-colored, and green sapphires which, in the opinion of a grader to be appointed by the Government, are of such colors already won within Queensland, or which may hereafter be won within the State between January 27, 1923, and January 26, 1924, "have become and shall remain and be held for the purpose of, and shall be kept for the disposal of the Government of the State of Queensland by all persons in whose possession the same are."

A second proclamation states that the price of the sapphires acquired under proclamation shall be the price obtained for such sapphires by the Government, less the amount of commission and expenses in connection with the grading, marketing, and sale thereof. Of such price there shall be payable to the miner at the time of delivery of such sapphires an amount equal to 95 percent of the market value of sapphires on the field. The balance of the price shall be payable as soon as practicable after the receipt of the proceeds of the sale of the sapphires by the Government and the ascertaining of the amount of commission and expenses connected with the grading, marketing, and sale thereof.

Once Over:

BY J. J. MUNDY

Everyone is more irritable in summer than in winter.

Conditions leading to the divorce court frequently start in summer

Why? Because it is a time of natural let down for all the family.

Husbands should be more lenient with their wives at this time and wives should not be so exacting with their husbands.

Husbands should not demand big meals. Wives should not ask for so many things to be done by husband around the House.

It is hard enough for the man of the house to keep things up as they should be at office or shop. When he gets home he wants to let down.

The house may not be so well kept when he does come home to rest, and he should not expect it during the excessive hot weather.

But nagging on both sides is making a bad matter worse and doing no good in any way.

Dad figures that home is the coolest place in summer. Mother thinks that home is "hot as an oven."

It is safer not to start an argument over the subject with the thermometer at ninety degrees in the shade.

For Eczema ... I'd Use Lavol

Because the first cool touch of Lavol instantly stops the fiery pain and biting itch.

Because I can now get, for the first time, the marvelous new skin discovery which physicians have used with almost unbelievable success in their private practice.

Because Lavol is recommended by the best doctors and hospitals throughout the world.

Because Lavol washes out, in a marvelously short time, the worst forms of skin disease. Hard crusts, and scales, weeping sores, poisonous rashes, ugly eruptions, pimples and skin blemishes— all yield to a single bottle of Lavol, famous liquid for external use only.

Col. House Calls For Less Selfish National Leadership

Col. E. M. House speaks out concerning future American foreign policy and its bearing on internal politics in the June number of the quarterly review, Foreign Affairs, published in New York. There can remain no doubt what are to be the chief issues of the coming campaign if Col. House has a hand in shaping them.

Col. House takes for his title "The Running Sands" and prefaces his article with the words used recently in a letter to him from Gen. Smuts: "The sands are running out, and unless some strong hand can even now clutch Europe and rescue her from the slope down which she is slipping, the catastrophe of the peace may yet become far greater than that of the great war."

THE WORLD COLOSSUS

"Let us remember," Col. House says, "that circumstances have had much to do with the commanding position America holds today—even though we have chosen, for the moment, not to use it. Previous to 1914 there were seven powers of the first class, but before the war closed it became reasonably clear that there would be but two outstanding nations left. By reason of her position, her population, her natural resources and her wealth, the United States was certain to be one of these, and Germany or Great Britain was certain to be the other. If Russia had not been broken by revolution she would have more than held her pre-war eminence, and, holding it, would also have held France in the front rank. In this event the United States would not have been the commanding figure she is today. Therefore, it may be said that by accident of circumstances rather than by, design we find ourselves the world colossus."

"In thinking of Europe's problems, which have inevitably become our problems, the people of the United States should bear in mind the responsibility which our position has forced upon us. The view taken by many of our citizens that Europe should be left to work out her own salvation in her own way would be tenable if we were discussing Europe prior to 1914. Unhappily, a shattered Europe confronts us. With three of the great continental powers disintegrated, our importance and responsibility are vastly augmented. We must face the facts as we find them, not as we may wish them."

DISAGREED WITH WILSON

Col. House goes back to the Versailles treaty and the League fight which followed. His references to President Wilson will be taken as showing that Col. House was inclined to be less uncompromising than his chief in dealing with the irreconcilables in the Senate. He writes: "The drifting of our government in the direction of complete isolation illustrates certain peculiar phenomena of politics. When President Wilson returned home from Paris with the Treaty of Versailles perhaps 80 percent of our people were heartily in favor of the League of Nations in some form. Never was greater pressure brought to bear upon a legislative body than was brought to bear upon the United States to pass the treaty.

"Then came the irreconcilable conflict between the legislative and executive branches of our government. The President was determined to have his way, the Senate were equally determined to have theirs. Unfortunately, Senate had the power to compel the President to yield or lose confirmation of the treaty, and, equally unfortunately, he refused to give way. As far as his approach to the Senate was concerned, in my judgment, the President's purpose was impeccable, but his manner unfortunate.

"Once in politics, the League became its football. It was kicked hither and thither, the public mind became confused and all sense of justice and proportion was lost. The fears of women and the cupidity of men were played upon in the electoral campaign and the worst apprehensions of those who desired to keep such a question out of politics were realised. Nevertheless, the League was not the determining factor in the campaign. The Paris peace conference, its prelude and its aftermath, which had aroused the nationalistic susceptibilities of Germans, Irish, Italians, and Greeks in Europe, affected those of the same race in this country and they voted en masse against the Democratic nominees. The reasons for this are obvious, but that their judgment was hasty and mistaken is becoming every day more certain. The high cost of living and the inevitable complaints of postwar conditions combined to give the Republicans a record breaking majority."

THE VERSAILLES TREATY

After defending the Versailles treaty as no better or worse per se than treaties framed under like circumstances usually are, Col. House states that he thinks it might have been made a workable and efficient instrument for peace had the United States done its part.

"Among those who know," he writes, "there is absolute agreement that the crux of most of the trouble that has arisen since the armistice was signed is France's fear of Germany not immediate, but eventual. Failure to pay reparations has been the apparent cause of the controversy, but the real cause is the fear of Frenchmen that when Germany is in condition to pay she will also be in condition to discontinue payment and, should it suit herplans, to invade France again.

"That was the situation which confronted the American delegates in Paris and that is the situation today. There is but one solution and that is to guarantee by a demand that a just sum shall be fixed for reparations, a sum which Germany can pay. Clemenceau, Wilson and George agreed upon the sensible and the reasonable plan to accomplish this result, and the Anglo-French and the Franco-American treaties were formulated and signed. The mere existence of a treaty of guarantee would in itself be sufficient to keep Germany from embarking on another adventure like that of 1914; Great Britain and the United States would never be called upon to fulfil their guarantees. Had the Senate ratified both treaties placed before it, with the League of Nations in force to modify and adjust unfair provisions of the Versailles treaty, a different world might exist today.

"The United States, after having risen to hights of courage and idealism in its entry and prosecution of the war, has gone to the other extreme in the making of peace. For taking this course history will probably be even less sparing of us than our presentday critics.

"Therefore, until tomorrow, when we shall again lend a guiding and helping hand, Europe must work out its own salvation. The problems are acute, but they are not insolvable, even without our aid. The French adventure in the Ruhr may not be wholly bad in its consequences. The Germans are now realising the bitterness of defeat, and the French are not accomplishing what they sought. This may lead both to a maximum effort toward mutual accommodation. When each side reaches such a frame of mind an agreement can be brought about. Germany must be willing to accept France's fear as a fact, not an illusion, and must offer to meet it in any reasonable way. This might be done by creating a zone of ample proportions along the Rhine in which Germany would agree to dismantle fortification already there and build no new ones. In addition, France might obtain an especial guarantee from both Great Britain and Italy, similar to that offered at Paris by Lloyd George and Wilson.

"The Irish Free State has now made application for membership in the League and undoubtedly will be admitted at the September meeting. The League is a God-sent haven for such states a Ireland. While many of her differences with Great Britain have been settled by treaty, there are still matters to be threshed out between them. They may be able to arrange these unsettled problems privately, but if they cannot, Ireland has sought the only forum open to her where it can be done.

"Gtrmany, too, will doubtless soon seek the same sanctuary. In the League a hearing before all the nations of the world may be had, and if not the power of the League then surely the power of public opinion, may be invoked When Ireland and Germany are once members of the League there is certain to be a desire on their part for the United States also to join, for what other nation is there whose interests are more detached than ours?

"Germany should be permitted League membership, and the League should undertake to see that Germany lived up to her obligations in the restricted zone. Once secured from unwarranted invasion. France should, and doubtless would, be reasonable as to the sum Germany must pay for reparations. This sum and the time and manner of its payment should be determined by a commission to be agreed upon by France and Germany. This commission should also present a plan for the stablisation of the mark, and for specifying the nature of security Germany should give that her obligations would be met became due. Once the entire problem was in course of settlement. American and European bankers would probably co-operate to make the plan a success. These sures should have been taken as soon as the United States stepped from under the responsibilitise of peace-making."
